

Access to Services

If this change was achieved what would we see?

- The community and individuals work together
- 'helping sector' acts as consultant; but essentially they are working their way out of a job

What is the current reality?

- There is little overlap between the 3

