

Complex Needs Banning - Info letter

How can I contact the researcher if I have any further questions?

This research is being organized by a team from M.A.P.S. Alberta Capital Region. If you have any more questions about this study, please contact:

<insert contact info for MAPS research team members here>

What happens to the information collected?

The information collected will be stored securely and is only accessible to the researchers. No individuals will be identifiable in our research reporting.

How can I learn about the results of the study?

The researchers will present study findings in public places. These presentations will be advertised with the agencies where data was collected. You may also send your email address or phone number to one of the researchers to be placed on a list to receive a research summary by email.

This study has raised personal issues that I need to speak to someone about... what should I do?

If you feel you have been negatively affected by taking part in this study, and would like to speak to a support person, there are several options to receive help. You may contact the following support person from the agency where you took part in the research, or you may contact one of the following support services in Edmonton. These contacts are aware of the study and willing to speak with you.

<insert contact info for agency specific support persons available for after care>

<insert contact info for any other pre-determined support services available to participants>